

COMMENT OF THE DAY

French Plan

THE French plan for German rearmament and European defence as announced by M. Mendes-France at Strasbourg is regarded by the majority of West European nations as "an acceptable basis for negotiation" at the forthcoming London talks. That is a kind way of saying they don't think very much of it. It may be described simply as "French elaborations on a theme by Eden"—and quite substantial elaborations at that. For the Benelux countries, Italy, Germany and America with nostalgic memories of the now dead EDC treaty, it will need a great deal more explanation before they can accept it. Naturally it would be premature to conclude that the final plan for West German rearmament will be the French version. At the same time, however, it is essential to bear in mind that M. Mendes-France has stated positively just how far the French Assembly is prepared to go and any final plan that ignores French objections is hardly likely to be accepted by Paris. It is worthwhile recalling, too, the strong stand taken by M. Mendes-France at the Brussels conference of the EDC powers and his refusal to back down on the amendments he proposed there. His Strasbourg plan for German rearmament may represent the limit to which France is prepared to go on this question, too.

So far the only supra-national feature of the French plan is that "certain military responsibilities should be vested in the revised Brussels Treaty"—this presumably refers to the setting up of an organisation representing all participating nations to fix the number of troops each country should put into Western defence and the maximum amount of armaments each country should have. But that is all. Obviously the French want this organisation established first so that the limits of German rearmament can be defined. Presumably they would then have no objection to her entry into NATO. But arms control cannot be applied to one Brussels treaty nation alone. It will have to be applied to all and if there is any attempt to impose a limit on the extent to which the European armies can expand, there is bound to be conflict with the NATO and SHAPE chiefs who have very fixed views on the need to build up Western Europe's armed strength.

An important American criticism of the plan is that it makes the Brussels Treaty Organisation, rather than NATO, the instrument through which international control over German rearmament is to be exercised. As the U.S. is not a member of the Brussels Organisation and has no intention of joining it, this proposal excludes her from the machinery of controlling German rearmament even though American funds under the foreign aid programme will have to be used to finance it initially. The new plan poses many problems which will have to be carefully investigated at the London talks next week, but it seems certain that America, Britain and interested European powers will have to make concessions to the French view if any sort of European defence or German rearmament plan is to emerge. Further threats of "agonising reappraisals" will be quite useless. They are not going to alter the deep-seated objections of the French people which M. Mendes-France detailed at Strasbourg. And to ignore French objections will be to ignore serious, rational, and Western European reality.

NO U.N. SEAT FOR RED CHINA

Question Shelved For Duration Of Present Session

DENMARK VOTES WITH SOVIET BLOC

New York, Sept. 21.

The United Nations General Assembly began its ninth session today by rejecting a Soviet demand for the admission of the Chinese Communists.

The Assembly approved by 43 to 11 with six abstentions a resolution proposed by the United States deciding "not to consider at its ninth session during the current year any proposals to exclude the representatives of the Government of the Republic of China or to seat representatives of the Central People's Government of the Chinese People's Republic."

The breakdown on the vote was:

In favour: Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, Iran, Iraq, Israel, the Lebanon, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Pakistan, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, the Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, South Africa, the United Kingdom, the United States, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Against: Burma, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, India, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Ukraine, USSR and Yugoslavia.

Abstentions: Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia, Syria and the Yemen.

Last year's vote on a similar motion was 44-10 in favour of shelving the question of Communist China's admission. This showed that only one country had swung its support to the Soviet bloc—Denmark.

PEACE-TIME ATOMIC RESEARCH BRITAIN AHEAD OF AMERICA?

Washington, Sept. 21.

Representative Chet Holifield (Democrat) said today Britain may be ahead of the United States in some aspects of peace-time atomic energy.

Mr. Holifield, a member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, has just returned from a trip to Europe which included a review of British progress in building reactors for commercial atomic power.

In an interview, Mr. Holifield called for "freer exchange" of atomic information between Britain and the United States. He said the administration's new atomic energy law, which was aimed at loosening up the restrictions on exchanging atomic information with the United States allies, did not go far enough.

And if the new law were administered with a "secretive psychology," he told a reporter, the amount of information which could be exchanged would be "very narrow."

Mr. Holifield said the British "feel very strongly that their economic survival is tied to the development of cheap energy through fusion." As a result, Britain had concentrated, and may be about to "some specialised field," he said. "But overall we're way ahead of them," he added.

Britain's atomic programme, much smaller than that of the United States, includes present construction of two reactors for commercial power, Mr. Holifield continued.

Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States at once countered with his proposal and asked for priority for it in voting. The Assembly decided by 45 to seven with five abstentions that the American proposal should have priority.

No vote was taken on Mr. Vyshinsky's proposal. Before the vote on the United States motion Mr. V. K. Krishna Menon, the head of the Indian delegation, suggested to Mrs. Pandit that she should rule it out of order. He maintained that the Assembly had no right to anticipate the work of the Credentials Committee.

OUT OF ORDER
"I submit," he said, "that the business before us is entirely out of order and this resolution cannot be voted upon as it has no business here."

One result of the passage of the resolution, Mr. Menon added, would be to prevent discussion of the representation of China and the setting of the only legitimate representative of the Chinese Government.

Mrs. Pandit had long talks with Mr. Day Hammarskjöld, the Secretary-General, and Mr. Andrew Cordier, Executive Assistant to the Secretary-General, and the Assembly delegates waited while they discussed the issue raised.

HARDLY POSSIBLE
After several minutes Mrs. Pandit said that it would hardly be possible to rule the United States proposal out of order in the light of the overwhelming vote. The Assembly had given in granting it priority.

After the vote there was an exchange between Mr. Vyshinsky and Mr. Lodge, which ended with the Soviet delegate declaring that his own proposal would not be withdrawn and that, although it was not voted on, it would remain on the record throughout the present session "and will live to see the day when this proposal will be argued and voted upon."

Kelly Fined $1,000

J. P. Kelly, 42, of 18, Peak Mahoning, who pleaded guilty to reckless driving, was fined $1,000 by Mr. Hinchling today morning, and had his license withdrawn. He was charged with driving on No. 22222, recklessly on Avenue 10, along South Road, the previous night, and was charged with driving on a suspended license.

Other Highlights at Yesterday's Opening: New President

Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens of the Netherlands was elected President. The vote was 45 for Van Kleffens, three for Prince Wan Wathayakon of Thailand and 12 abstentions.

The vote came after a dramatic incident in which India's V. K. Krishna Menon sought to have the issue sent to the Assembly's Credentials Committee, only to be overruled by Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, temporary Assembly President and sister of India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Cyprus Question

Highly reliable sources said the United States would abstain from voting when the question of whether to put Cyprus on the United Nations General Assembly agenda came up in the United Nations General Committee tomorrow.

They understood the United States' attitude was based on the belief that this was not the time to bring the Cyprus question before the United Nations when more important matters are occupying the attention of the free nations.

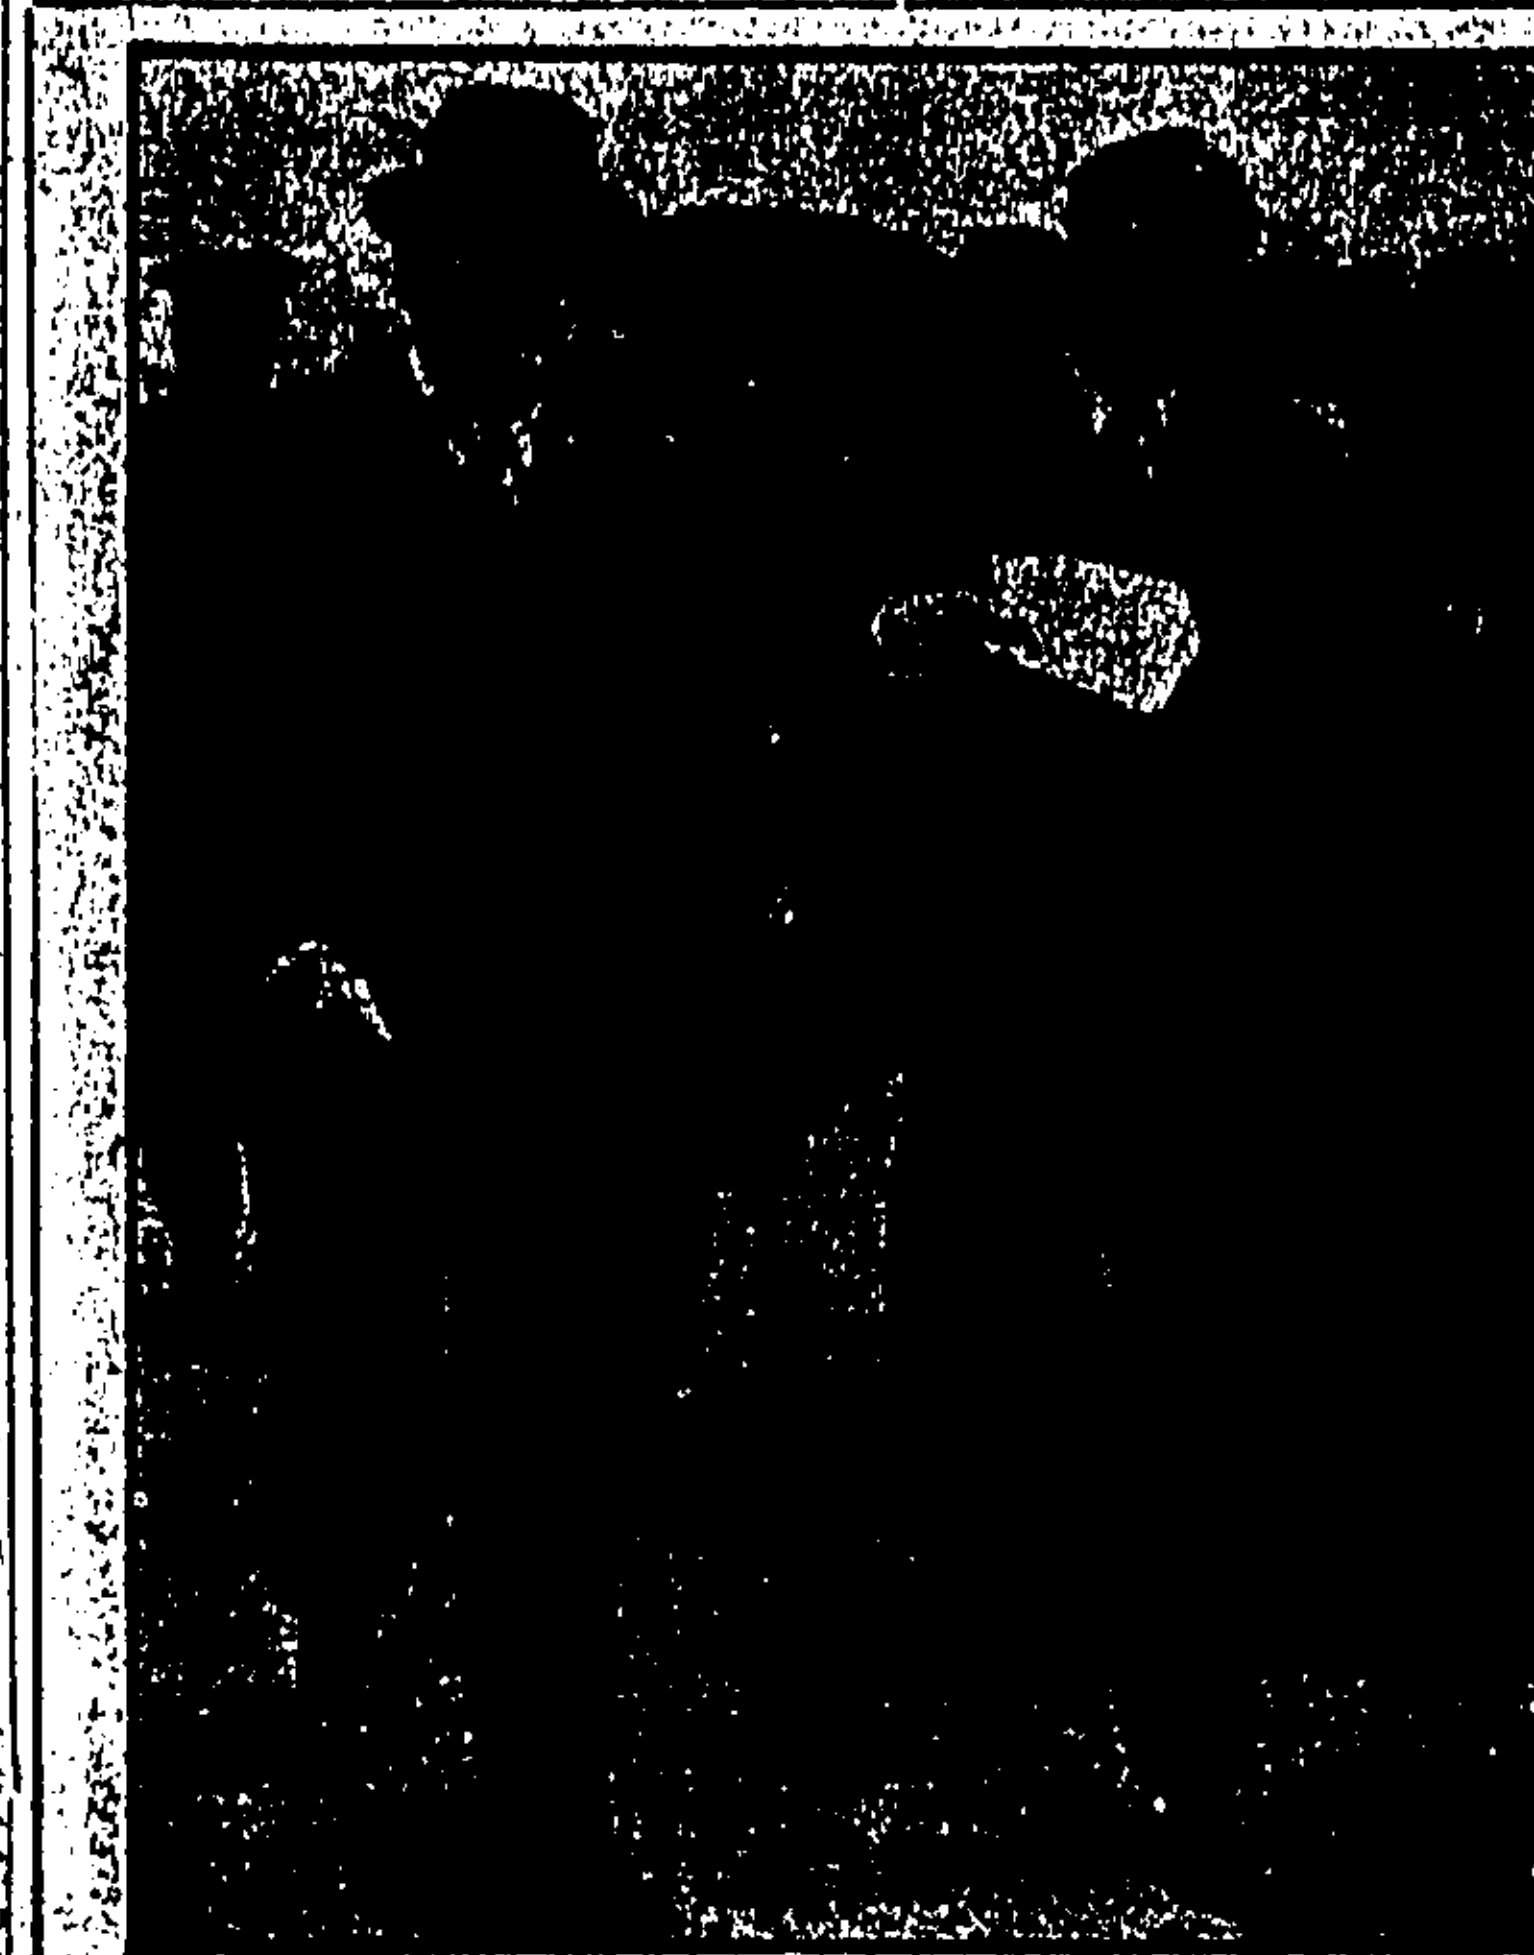

They said that if the majority of the General Committee should approve putting Cyprus on the Assembly's agenda, the United States would hope that a resolution of a general nature, which could be approved by Britain and Greece, would emerge from the debate. —Reuter & United Press.

No Typhoid Epidemic In HK Says Health Director

Questioned about a reported "epidemic" of typhoid fever in Hong Kong today, the Director of the Health Service, Dr. G. Graham-Cumming, said today there had been "the usual seasonal increase" of typhoid cases, but he would not describe it as an "epidemic."

Actually typhoid cases had decreased considerably this year compared with last year, mostly due to the precautions taken against the disease, he said. Last year, between January 1 and September 19, there were a total of 1,176 cases with 10 deaths. In the same period this year there were 585 cases with 31 deaths.

Italy's Drug Orgy Scandal Hits The Headlines Again

Montesi Scandal Revived: Two Men Arrested

Rome, Sept. 21.

Piero Piccioni, 31-year-old jazz band leader and son of Italy's former Foreign Minister and the Marquis Ugo Montagna, 46, were arrested today on a warrant issued by the magistrate inquiring into the Montesi scandal.

The men are the two most prominent figures named in Rome's drug orgy scandal arising from the death of Wilma Montesi, the 23-year-old girl who is alleged to have died in a drug orgy on the shooting estate of the Marquis Montagna, in April last year.

Piccioni, it is understood, faces a charge of manslaughter punishable by six months to five years' imprisonment. The charge against Montagna is that of aiding and abetting, which carries a prison sentence up to four years.

POLICE CHIEF BOUGHT

A warrant has also been issued ordering Signor Saverio Polito, former Rome Police Chief, to appear before Dr. Raffaele Sepe, prominent magistrate who has been searching for the truth about Wilma Montesi for the past six months. The Italian news agency Ansa reported that Signor Polito had been charged with "abuse of his powers and violation of his duties."

The agency said the charges were that on April 11 (the day on which Wilma Montesi's body was found) Signor Polito got together with the Marquis Montagna, "helped Piccioni to elude police investigations" and steered the enquiry towards the theory that Wilma died accidentally.

These charges carry penalties of two to four years' imprisonment. The arrest warrants came four days after Signor Attilio Piccioni, 62, Piero's father, resigned as Italian Foreign Minister to begin the task of indicating the position of my son, who—I am absolutely certain—has nothing to fear from judicial investigations." A crowd gathered outside the grim old "Queen of Heaven" prison tonight in the hope of watching a glimpse of the two men whose names have been in Italian headlines daily for several months.

Excitement reached such a pitch in the capital that the Government issued an official denial that troops had been confined to barracks and that special police precautions had been ordered.

The half nude body of 23-year-old Wilma Montesi was washed up on a beach near Rome 17 months ago.

Police then said she was accidentally drowned but Silvano Muto, a neo-fascist journalist, claimed that she was the victim of drug orgies on the shooting estate of Marquis Ugo Montagna and that police were shielding prominent people.

Muto was put on trial for publishing a false and malicious information. But the trial was suspended after a month of conflicting evidence and the Sepe investigation was ordered. —Reuter.

Indirectly, it has done harm in the sense that it has stirred British and American suspicions. "Sir Alexander," Grantham said, "helped Piccioni to elude police investigations" and steered the enquiry towards the theory that Wilma died accidentally.

These charges carry penalties of two to four years' imprisonment. The arrest warrants came four days after Signor Attilio Piccioni, 62, Piero's father, resigned as Italian Foreign Minister to begin the task of

Mr Dulles Arrives In London

This picture shows the American Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles and the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, leaving London airport last week after Mr. Dulles arrived in London from Bonn, where he had talks with the German Federal Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer. The two statesmen left immediately for Downing Street where they were entertained by Sir Winston Churchill at lunch.

Afterwards Mr. Eden and Mr. Dulles exchanged views with British Foreign Office officials on Mr. Eden's "Little Europe" tour and his plans for rearming West Germany.

New U.S. Warning To Red China

'We Will Retaliate If You Bomb Taiwan'

Washington, Sept. 22.

The United States naval air force would retaliate if the Chinese Communists, after calling off their threatened sea invasion of Formosa, attempted to cripple the Nationalist island stronghold by bombing raids, American officials said today.

They were commenting on widespread reports that the Communists, while continuing their shelling of Quemoy, were quietly assembling a mighty air fleet on the mainland which could be used against Formosa. The existing instructions to the United States Seventh Fleet are to defend Formosa as well as the neighbouring Pescadore Islands against Communist invasion.

President Eisenhower has said that the Communists would have to "run over" the fleet before they could reach Formosa.

Officials said today the instructions to the air force applied whether or not an attack was made by sea.

ADMIRAL'S AUTHORITY

The spokesman said the Commander-in-Chief of the Seventh Fleet, Admiral Alfred Price had the authority to determine when and under what conditions his planes would take off to meet a Communist air attack against Formosa.

The Pacific Fleet will soon be strengthened by the arrival of the aircraft carrier Midway and 16 destroyers from the Atlantic. Although all of these units may not be assigned to the Formosa Strait area, their presence gives the Pacific Fleet defending Formosa a potential strength of 15 aircraft carriers and about 100 cruisers, 150 destroyers and 60 submarines.

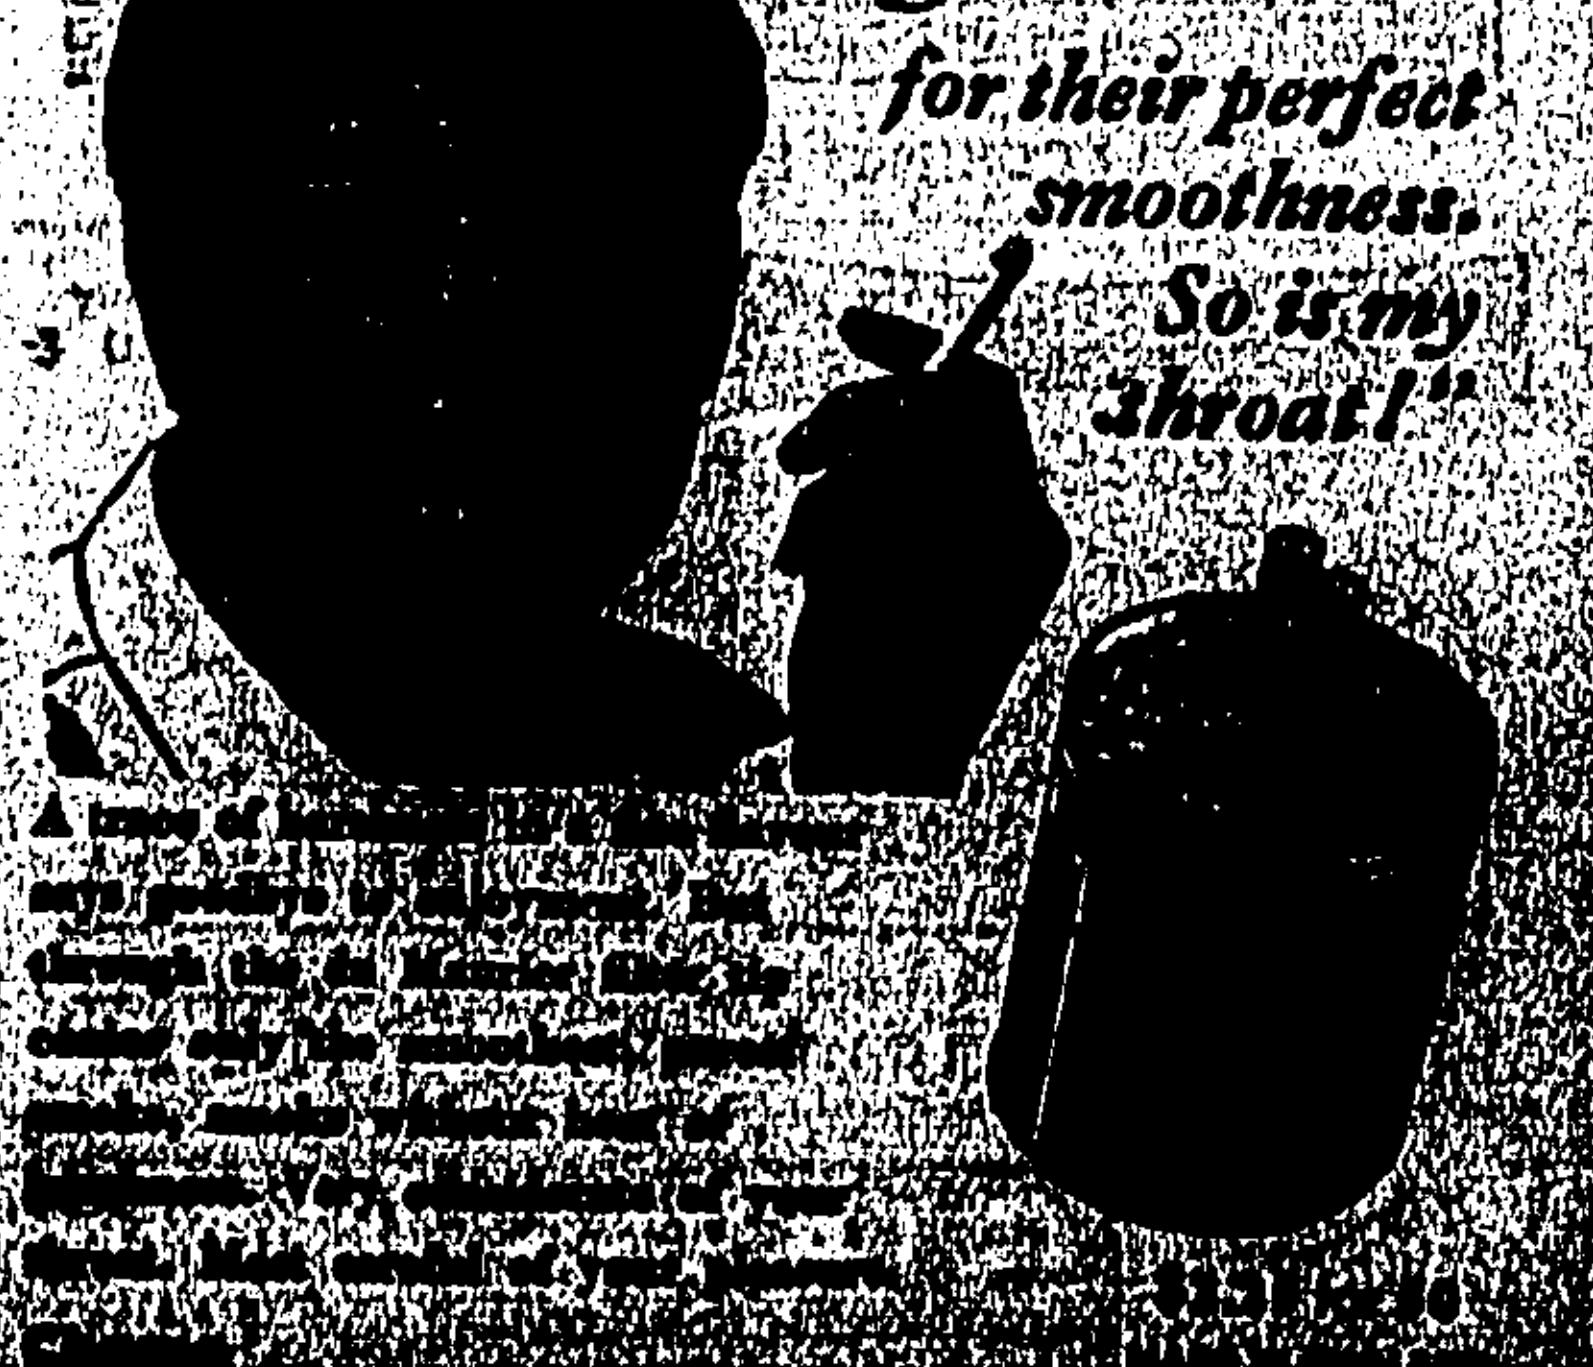

Most, it is understood, can be switched with little loss of time in case of an emergency to the nearby permanently assigned to the job of protecting the island.

FRIDE IN TAIPEI

United Press reports from Taipei said Admiral Price flew to Formosa today, shortly after a Nationalist newspaper reported that Russia had moved Naval reinforcements southward along the China coast.

Admiral Price, whose recently strengthened Seventh Fleet is charged with defending Formosa against a possible Chinese Communist invasion attempt, will meet with President Chiang Kai-shek and U.S. military officials. —Reuter and United Press.

'U.S. Should Offer A-Plants To Asia'

New York, Sept. 21. Senator Estes Kefauver returned from Europe today with the proposal that the United States offer dramatic proof of its peaceful intentions by setting up a series of atomic power plants "in Asia and some of the backward areas of the world."

Mr. Kefauver arrived aboard the American liner Constitution with his wife, Nancy, after a visit to her father, Sir Stephen Piggott, in Scotland, and attendance at the Inter-Parliamentary Conference at Vienna.

Mr. Kefauver asked also for a Voice of America "free and unfettered by political and destructive influences" to better spread the message of freedom abroad.

He said most peoples tempted by Communism "don't know whether Karl Marx is an apartment house in Vienna or an American comedian."

"They're simply hungry and discontented," he added. "It is imperative that we restore the confidence of the free world in the United States." Mr. Kefauver said, "We need a dramatic manifestation of our peaceful motives... it would be a great step in the right direction if we were to announce immediately to the world that... insofar as it is consistent with our national security—we are going to build a series of atomic plants for peaceful purposes and the development of cheap atomic power in Asia and some of the backward parts of the world. This would... confuse and confound the Communists. It would win us the renewed confidence and friendship of millions in Europe and Asia."

Washington, Sept. 21. Russia's attitude toward international disarmament is "shout for peace" and "arm to the teeth," the United States representative to a United Nations Disarmament Sub-Committee said today.

Putting it another way, Mr. Merlehead Patterson, US deputy representative to the Sub-Committee of the Disarmament Commission which met in London last spring, told Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, US representative to the United Nations:

"The Soviet Union was willing to disarm everyone except the Soviet Union." The five-nation Sub-Committee with representatives from the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Canada and the Soviet Union held 19 secret meetings in London during May and June. The records of 17 meetings now have been made public. No records were kept of the other two meetings.

Patterson gave Lodge this summary of Soviet proposals:

NO SAFEGUARDS

"Make a pledge without safeguards. Make promises without providing methods for observance of those promises. Say that you want international control, but evade any discussion of the practical methods of securing those controls. Propose plans that will disarm the West without disarming the Soviet bloc. Shout for peace, and at the same time arm to the teeth so that ultimately the military superiority of the Soviet bloc will be so overwhelming that it can sweep away everything in its path."

Patterson told Lodge that the only thing agreed on between the Western nations and the Soviet Union was that further attempts should be made to reach "an acceptable solution."

The United Nations General Assembly's Disarmament resolution said that "an acceptable solution" would be one agreed on by all five Sub-Committee member nations.

Patterson mentioned the unity of the four Western powers, but added, "Obviously, the Sub-

Christmas Eve London's Black Traffic Day

London, Sept. 21. The blackest day on the London roads last year was Christmas Eve when 237 people were killed or injured, police headquarters reported today.

Altogether 42,203 casualties of all types occurred in the area during the year, including 587 people killed, an increase of 2,588 over 1952.

Serious accidents, 14.6 per cent of the total, were the highest on record. About 70 per cent of pedestrians were injured when crossing the road.

The worst day of the week on average was Saturday and the worst month last year was May — just before the Coronation.

For the fifth year running, the greatest proportionate increase in casualties was among motorcyclists. —China Mail Special.

Aid Approved For South Korea

Denver, Sept. 21. President Eisenhower today approved a $100,000,000 increase in military and economic aid to South Korea, under a new programme, providing for training of Korean jet pilots.

The President's action was announced here by Mr. Harold Stassen, Chief of the Foreign Operations Administration, after he had conferred with Mr. Eisenhower.

Mr. Stassen also told a press conference that Mr. Eisenhower had approved a plan for the use of more American military aircraft—about 10,000,000 tons—in the Korean aid programme.

Mr. Stassen added that the new aid would make it possible for South Korea to train her own jet pilots for the first time. Some of the training on jet planes probably would take place in the United States and some in South Korea.

The purpose of increasing aid to South Korea, Mr. Stassen said, was to check inflationary pressures resulting from the war and to make it possible for South Korea to maintain a strong army of its own in the withdrawal of American divisions from that country.

The Great Trek A Great Task

Durban, Sept. 21. The first sketches have been made of a magnificent tapestry of the Great Trek, which will take about 20 years to complete.

When finished, the tapestry will be hung in the Voortrekker Monument at Pretoria. They are being made by the women of South Africa.

The purpose of increasing aid to South Korea, Mr. Stassen said, was to check inflationary pressures resulting from the war and to make it possible for South Korea to maintain a strong army of its own in the withdrawal of American divisions from that country.

He said that the new aid would make it possible for South Korea to train her own jet pilots for the first time. Some of the training on jet planes probably would take place in the United States and some in South Korea.

British Cabinet Studying Main Policy Lines

LONDON CONFERENCE COMMENCES TUESDAY

London, Sept. 21.

The British Cabinet met today to draw up the main lines of its policy for next week's nine-nation conference here on West German rearmament.

Before it was the French memorandum sent to the other eight governments last week, setting out the proposals of M. Pierre Mendes-France, the Prime Minister, for a European arms control organisation as a safeguard against any resurgence of German militarism.

This plan, a supplement to Britain's own proposal to bring a rearmament West Germany into the Atlantic and Brussels Treaty Organisations is expected to dominate the four or five-day meeting opening next Tuesday.

No indication of the Cabinet decisions was given after today's meeting. But diplomatic quarters here are more than able to agree on an alternative plan for rearmament of the German Republic, following the collapse of the European Army plan.

M. Mendes-France outlined his proposals to the Council of Europe Assembly in Strasbourg yesterday.

Under them, the Continental members of an enlarged Brussels Treaty Organisation would have their arms production co-ordinated, inspected and controlled by a new body set up by the six nations and Britain.

Agreed maxima would be set for the national contributions to the Western defence organisation on the Continent.

OWN ARMS AUTHORITY
Britain's forces on the Continent would be subject to the supervision of powers of the new group but her arms and industry at home would be outside its authority.

The main difference of emphasis between the present British and French ideas centres on whether the principal responsibility for supervision should rest with the Brussels pact or the Atlantic Treaty Organisation. Britain favours the latter.

But diplomatic observers here see nothing in the French plan for controlling national rearmament efforts to which Britain would hold strong objections.

It is believed, moreover, that it will not prove entirely unacceptable to the Continental states whose arms programmes are being reorganised. The French plan for controlling national rearmament efforts to which Britain would hold strong objections.

Mr Attlee Wants Closer East-West Ties

U.S.-CANADA BROADCAST

Montreal, Sept. 21.

Globe-trotting Clement Attlee flew to Britain tonight with a call to the Western world to develop closer relations with Communist China in order to keep that country from becoming "a mere Russian satellite".

The British Labour Party leader wound up a round-the-world trip that took him behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains. Before boarding the plane at Montreal's Dorval Airport, Mr Attlee recorded a report on his trip for North America, in which he declared, "The closer the contact China has with the West, the better."

The former Prime Minister, looking tired from his gruelling tour, said he did not believe "China is a mere Russian satellite." The Communist leaders of China had given him the impression that they had wills of their own.

Mr Attlee warned the West against driving Chinese leaders closer to the Kremlin. "The more action there is against China, the more she will cling to the Soviet Union," he declared, adding that China was finding it necessary to "fall back on whatever help she can get."

Mr Attlee's report, carried on the Trans-Canada network of the CBC as well as on American networks, emphasised China's new role in the world. "What happens to the people of China," he said, "is of vital importance to the whole world."

The Labour Party leader said the Western world should be careful "not to oppose totalitarianism with another form of the same ideology." "I oppose Communism intensely," he said, "but whether the Chinese go Communist is a matter for them to decide."

Mr Attlee said the West could not dictate to China what form of government she should have and that they cannot dictate to us. "He reiterated his call for co-existence of capitalist and Communist nations and defended the decision of the eight British Labour Party leaders to visit China."

"Some people think we should not have visited China," he said, "but we went on the ground that it was wrong to understand China's point of view," he said.

SAME THINKING
He said the same thinking applied to the question of admitting China to the United Nations.

"There are those who oppose a seat for China," he said, "not on the ground of aggression, but because it is a Communist country."

Such thinking, he said, was totalitarian in nature, negating the very thing the West stood for. Mr Attlee said China had passed through "a great revolution" in the past 30 years. The country had gone through civil wars and revolutions and had been "born to places."

The Communists had taken advantage of the rising tide of nationalism and won the country. Britain also had contended with nationalist aspirations in such countries as India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Burma, but the transformation of these countries had been peaceful.

GOOD AND BAD
Mr Attlee said that the Chinese had both good and bad qualities. He said that the Chinese had a long history and a rich culture, but he also said that they had a long history of oppression and poverty.

He said that the Chinese had a long history of oppression and poverty, but he also said that they had a long history of culture and civilization.

Palestine Truce Official Recalled

Jerusalem, Sept. 21.

The Headquarters of the United Nations Truce Supervisory Organisation announced today that Commander Elmo Huthinson, United States Navy, will relinquish his post as Chairman of the Jordan-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission in mid-October.

A communique said Commander Huthinson, who was seconded to the Palestine Truce Supervisory Organisation, was being recalled to duty with the United States Navy.

Commander Huthinson's removal was demanded by Israel after the Scorpion Pass incident last March in which 11 passengers on a Negev bus were murdered.

His failure to support an Israeli resolution in the Commission concerning Jordan for the attack was followed by Israel walking out of the Commission and boycotting its work, it was stated.

It is expected that Israel will now be prepared to return to the Commission, after an absence of five months.—Reuter.

METROPOLITAN'S SENTENCE REDUCED

Belgrade, Sept. 21.

The Montenegro Supreme Court announced today that it had reduced the prison term now being served by Metropolitan Arsenije Brankovic from 11 years and six months to five years six months.

Metropolitan Brankovic was gaoled last July 25 on counts of "criminal actions of associating himself against the people and State, provoking religious hatred and injuring the reputation of representatives of the highest State authorities." — United Press.

Britain Defeated At Strasbourg

Strasbourg, Sept. 21.

British delegates from all parties were narrowly defeated today in an attempt to persuade the Council of Europe to postpone voting on a European defence resolution.

They argued that there would be no point in considering the resolution before the nine-power conference on European defence which opens next Tuesday, but delegates decided by 45 votes to 40 that it should be presented this week.

Most British delegates opposed the resolution drafted by the General Affairs Committee, as it proposes some form of British participation in a new European defence organisation.

British Conservative, Labour and Liberal delegates in the Council's 15-nation Consultative Assembly are now expected to attempt to block a vote on the resolution by moving a "preliminary question."

This procedure would delay the Assembly but, whether it prevents any consideration of the resolution remains to be seen. British delegates are convinced that a Council of Europe recommendation on European defence would not be opportune at this time.

SUPPORT FOR GERMANY
The General Affairs Committee resolution supports West Germany's entry into the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation and the formation of a new regional defence grouping, which would include Britain.

East-West trade had both been and was being debated by delegates in the Assembly today. Mr. Albert Roberts, British Labour delegate, said East-West trade could be used as a weapon for peace. He said there should be abundant trade between Communist countries followed by peaceful methods, but the threat of embargo when they did not follow Communist policy.

Mr. Roberts said there was an evidence that lesser trade with the West would strain any Communist economy to breaking point, while the some non-Communist countries, especially Japan, trade with China was "absolutely necessary."

Mr. Arthur Bottomley, another British Labour delegate, said "We should do everything to increase our exports of non-strategic goods to the East, otherwise we shall lose valuable markets later on."

China was a big Western market, as trading facilities had improved, and it was possible that China could provide many raw materials needed by the West, he said.

In the brief debate on South Asia, Mr. Henry Roblin, Belgian Socialist, stressed the importance of economic relations between South Asia and the West, but he said that the West should not be too hasty in making a decision on the issue.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Expert Gives Foe Bridge Lesson

By OSWALD JACOBY

THE bidding shown with today's hand never actually took place. The hand was actually played in the days of auction bridge, and South reached a contract of four spades doubled by bidding that would seem strange to contract bridge players.

The South player was one of the greatest bridge players of all time—Sidney R. Lenz. East happened to be a rather disagreeable and unsuitable person, who got quite a lesson from this hand.

East won two diamond tricks to begin with, and then led the queen of clubs to Lenz's king. When the old master led out the ace and king of spades, East dropped the king and jack, hoping that his illustrious opponent would be foolish enough to miscount the trumps.

"Glad to see the jack drop," Lenz remarked, and he led the ace of clubs. East pounced on this trick with the seven of trumps and a cackle of joy.

East then led a heart, and Lenz won with the ace. Declarer could now lead the five of spades to dummy's six and cash the jack and ten of clubs in order to discard his low hearts. He thus made his doubled game contract.

East cackled loudly about how he had fooled the great expert. And it came as a great shock to him to learn that he himself had made the only error in the play of the cards.

If declarer draws three rounds of trumps, he must lose two hearts and two diamonds. Hence Lenz was quite correct in leaving one trump out.

Moreover, East would have fared better if he had refrained from ruffing the ace of clubs. If East simply discards on the trick, South may wriggle and squirm, but must still lose two hearts in addition to the two diamonds that were taken at the very beginning.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 Diamond Double Rebl. ?
You, South, hold: Spades 5-3, Hearts 9-6-2, Diamonds 8-5, Clubs K-8-7-3-2. What do you do?

A—Bid two clubs. You should be safe at clubs even if your partner has a fairly good major suit. The hand is strong enough for free action.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 5-3, Hearts 9-6-2, Diamonds K-Q-5, Clubs A-8-7-3-2. What do you do?

Answer Tomorrow

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22

BORN today, you may need to develop a little more aggressive disposition. If you are to reach your objective early in life, there is a realness in your make-up which makes it difficult for you to settle down to any single interest. Your enthusiasm for a new idea runs high at first, but then tends to slacken, only the novelty wears off. Learn to put your energies into accomplishing some one thing before you go on to another.

You enjoy the good things of life and are really happy only when you are surrounded by beauty and harmony. You enjoy leisure and dislike being rushed into things. In fact, you are distinctly allergic to being pushed. You may accept a suggestion, if tactfully made, but never an order. You are too independent for that!

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Don't say something you'll be sorry you said. Be tactful with those you love.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Don't say for you to be conservative. Unwise to be too venturesome. Taking risks is not a good idea today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—One of those so-so days. Nothing very good, nothing very bad. Just stick to regular routine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 23)—Keep your weather eye open for trouble. Alergia can take care of any emergency.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24-Jan. 20)—Worry never helped anything. Don't try to cross bridges before you come to them, and all will be well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Be diplomatic when discussing

Imaginative and original, you have considerable temperament. By any one who isn't a close friend! Learn to control impulsiveness, for you often say things in anger that you regret as soon as you have cooled off. For the greatest matrimonial happiness, wed someone born under Gemini or Sagittarius.

Among those born on this date are: James Bowdoin, statesman; Michael Faraday, scientist; Paul Muni, actor; and Joseph Bellman, banker.

problems with those you love. The domestic front is unsettled.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Definitely not a day for romance. It is much too easy to quarrel with those you love. Be careful!

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—The sun is still in its heaven, even if it seems hidden behind clouds just now. Be patient and stay calm.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—There may be opposition to romance today, but if you know it is the real thing, don't let anything stop you!

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Aspects are beginning to clear somewhat. Advance slowly and at least make a little progress.

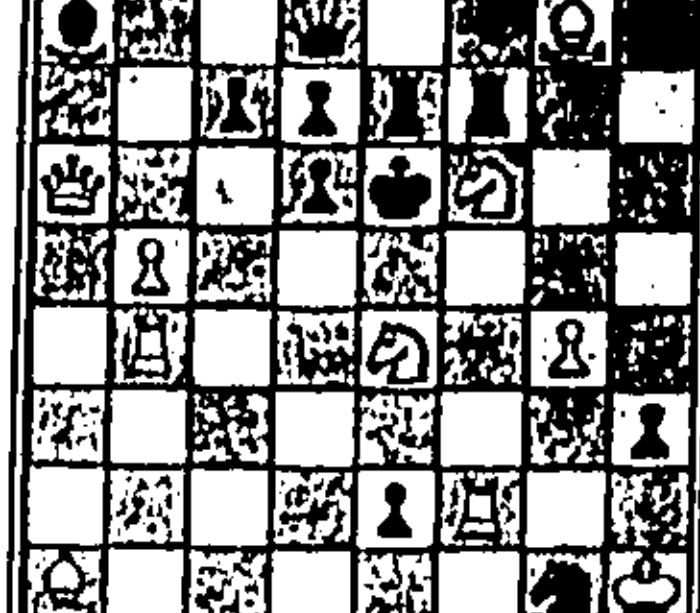

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Any serious obstacle to the attainment of your desires should now be out of the way. Go after what you want.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Tact and diplomacy are the keys to your happiness today. One wrong word could start a minor emotional explosion.

Today is Riddle-Day

—See if You Can Guess All the Answers—

By MAX TRELL

"TODAY," said Mr Punch as he looked at all his friends in the playroom, "today is riddle-day. Who has a riddle?"
Everyone in the playroom waited for the next one to speak. No one wanted to be the first to ask a riddle. So Knarf, Hand, the shadow-children with the turned-about names, waited for Teddy the Stuffed Bear to speak; and Teddy waited for Mary-Jane the rag-doll to speak; and Mary-Jane waited for Halwa's little wooden doll to speak; and Halwa's little wooden doll waited for General Tin the tin soldier to speak.

The General Leads Off

As for General Tin, he glanced around but saw that he was the only one left and that there was no one he could wait for, so he cleared his throat and finally said: "What goes up when it comes down?"
"Is that a riddle, General Tin?" asked Hand.

"It certainly is," said General Tin. "And I got an answer, too. I'll say it again. What goes up when it comes down?"

Knarf suddenly guessed the answer to General Tin's riddle. "An umbrella goes up when it comes down. And it's rain." Everyone saw that this was right. They all congratulated Knarf for being very clever.

Knarf was the next one to ask a riddle. His riddle was:

"What goes less and less every day in the year?"
Teddy took more thinking than General Tin's riddle. Mary-Jane the rag-doll guessed it. "The answer is Calendar," she said. "Every day in the year it has one less day."

It was the right answer, of course.

A Play on Words

Mary-Jane had the next riddle. This is the riddle she asked:

"Now, listen very carefully, I am asking you a riddle. It is a word that means 'to play on words'."

Knarf was the first to guess the answer. "It's a pun," he said. "A pun is a word that means 'to play on words'."

That was the right answer, too. Knarf was very clever.

"What can it be?" said Mary-Jane.

Teddy couldn't help smiling, but he gave no hints.

Halwa's said: "Has it only got one eye, Teddy? Because I know what it is."

Teddy said yes, it only had one eye.

"It's a Needle!" said Halwa.

And that was just what it was. "A needle," explained Teddy, "always works, or sews, with a thread in its eye."

The Starry Night

Halwa's riddle was easy. Everyone in the room guessed it. This was it: "What is it we sleep in, the owl flies in, and the stars shine in?"

"Did you guess it?"

The answer is the Night.

Rupert and Niagara—12

Clearly, will does not appear in answer to Rupert's call for the little bear moves forward. Come, dear Rupert, don't be so slow. I have a riddle for you. It is a word that means 'to play on words'.

Recipes Featuring Tangy Foods From Brazil

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

HERE are several recipes from gracious home-makers in Brazil. They were collected for us by Mrs. Carl E. Swanbeck, one of the four outstanding members of The General Federation of Women's Clubs who recently visited Brazil to review the coffee situation.

Two Favourites

The recipes feature two favourites. Brazilian foods, shrimp and coconuts. Another is for a candy, made from sweetened condensed milk, which is much used in South America where very sweet desserts and candies are popular.

Let's test and taste.

Brigadiers—A Brazilian Candy (delightful for dessert with after-dinner coffee):

In a small saucepan, combine 2 (15-oz.) tins sweetened condensed milk, 2 tbs. honey, 1/2 tsp. salt, and 2 tbs. butter.

Stir and mix over an asbestos mat on a low heat until the mixture loosens from the bottom of the pan and turns slightly brown. Then cool.

Form into small balls containing 1 tsp. each. Roll in chocolate sprinkles. Let stand a few hours before serving.

Dinner

Tomato-Lettuce Salad
Steamed Fish Fillets with Shrimp Sauce
Whipped Potato
Curried Green Lima
Coconut Mould
Pineapple Sauce
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea Milk
All Measurements As Usual
Recipe Serves 4 to 6

Steamed Fish Fillets with Shrimp Sauce: Bake or broil 1 1/2 lbs. fish fillets on a serving-sized plate. To serve, pour Brazilian shrimp sauce over and around.

Brazilian Shrimp Sauce: In a 2-qt. saucepan, heat 1 tbs. each butter and olive oil. Add

1 minced peeled onion, 1 tbs. minced parsley, and 1/4 crushed peeled section garlic. Simmer 3 min.

Mix in the contents 2 (8-oz.) tins tomato sauce, 1/2 tbs. butter and 1/4 tbs. minced Parmesan cheese. Add 1 lb. cleaned whole cooked shrimps. Add salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 10 min.

Before serving stir in the yolk of 1 egg mixed with 1 tbs. water. Serve over fish fillets or flaky rice.

Coconut Mould with Pineapple Sauce: Add 1 c. shredded coconut to 3

c. milk. Heat until bubbles form around the edge.

Blend 1 tbs. cornstarch, 1/3 c. sugar, 1/4 tbs. salt and 1/2 c. cold milk. Stir into the milk mixture. Slow-cook and stir 5 min. over low heat.

Transfer to custard cups. Chill 2 hrs., or until firm. Unmould. Serve with chilled, pitted, stewed prunes flavoured with lemon juice.

Fashion News From America

LATEST STYLES IN FURS

Chicago. The fur tax cut helped, but style and clever workmanship are helping even more, he said. "American women want Parisian design but U.S. craftsmanship."

This year's furs feature slimmness in line, casual flares, dramatic collars and sleeves, with capes, stoles and boleros taking the place.

The most popular collars are the sailor, cape, standaway and crush.

This year, heavier will parade as a blond, shorn down like a girl with a shingle bob.

Muskrat can be disguised to look like mink, or ride on its own in caramel, bisque, or blue sapphire shades.

Among the colour novelties are mink-shrug and mouton sweaters-jackets in eight shades ranging from fire red to azure blue.

In mink, the demand is for dark shades, which are up 20 percent in price, Meltzer said. But the prices of the rarer cerulean, sapphire are down 25 percent, and royal pastel is down 20 percent.

A leading Chicago furrier says the bottom fell out of the business in 1933. In 1934, retail fur sales totalled $425,000, 000. Sales in 1933 plummeted to $190,000,000.

"But this year we're going to catch the American woman's eye with everything from mink collar and cuff sets at $15 to rose-hued sapphire mink stoles at $4,000," A.L. Meltzer predicted.

The idea is to bring furs within the price range of every woman in America. "So far it's worked," he said. "Fur sales jumped 100 percent in April, May and June of 1934 compared with the same period last year."

NORMAN AND SEEMIN TO MEET IN FINAL OF OPEN SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP

By "TOUCHER"

George C. Norman of Kowloon Bowling Green Club and A. H. Seemin of Indian Recreation Club qualified to meet each other in the final of the Colony 1954 Open Singles Lawn Bowls Championship by virtue of their semi-final victories yesterday at the Hongkong Football Club over A. R. A. Rahman and Peter Hughes.

Despite an intermittent drizzle and frequent gusts of strong wind, all the four bowlers gave a grand display of top-notch bowls.

Of the two matches the more closely contested was that between George Norman and A. R. A. Rahman, which went to 24 heads before it was won by Norman by 22-10.

Trailing behind all the way from the 7th to the 21st head, by which time the score stood at 13-18, the Kowloon Bowling Green Club bowler and last year's runner-up spectacularly rose from the shades of defeat with a two, a four and a three to snatch a 22-18 win.

WELL DESERVED

For Norman it was a triumph deserving of the consistent bowls served up by him, in which luck played almost no part at all. Except for a couple of heads or so in which carelessness marred his play and another head where he made an uncalled-for drive, the winner gave his usual excellent performance of drawing to the jack.

An outstanding contributing factor to his success yesterday was his greater ability of keeping his weight to the heavier green when play was resumed on the 10th head with the score at 12-15.

His fighting qualities and steadiness stood him in good stead not only in the final stages but also in the middle of the game when many a player would have crumpled up against the brilliant bowling of Rahman.

One vast improvement in Norman's play yesterday was the greater attention paid by him in consolidating his shots at the back—a lesson learnt undoubtedly from his last year's final.

Rahman showed the makings of a great player, but still lacked that necessary consistency and steadiness.

He cranked up badly on the 22nd head. With the score standing at 18-13, he threw a medium-long head after having been successful throughout on short to medium heads. Norman outdrew him with two beatable shots about a foot away from the jack which was still open to a dead draw.

Norman made full use of the jack on the next head when he threw an almost full head. With this first wood he drew the shot about a foot behind the jack and added three more around the jack, each about a similar distance away.

Rahman's nerves failed him in this head. He was nervous with the first wood which went high on the negative side out of the count and was short with his second and third woods.

He was a little unlucky with this last wood, when it went through the cluster without resting any of them.

AT HIS BEST

The last head saw Norman at his best. With his first wood he drew a touchier, that stayed alongside the jack. Rahman drew the second shot about a foot behind the jack from the forehead.

Norman came with a perfectly delivered wood to rest the backwood for second shot, and Rahman made another major error when he changed his hand to the swinging backhand which neither of them had been able to master throughout the game. He was narrow with all his three remaining woods, as Norman added the third shot to win the match by 22-18.

In the other semi-final match, A. H. Seemin's deadly drawing to the jack paved the way to his comfortable 24-13 win over Peter Hughes.

He started rather shakily with Hughes having the better of him in the first seven heads. An unorthodox driving shot by him in the seventh head with his opponent lying on gave Hughes an additional two shots to lead by 7-5.

With that lead, Seemin gradually put into his stride with brilliant bowls against which Hughes, despite a plucky display, could do little.

Time and again, the winner would come in with hugging touches when his opponent was lying two or three.

Hughes made a strong stand at 10-15, but Seemin continued to forge ahead to 18-10 on the next two heads and at 20-13 on the last head, completed the match with a four.

FANLING GOLF

Draw For Victory Cup Competition

The following is the draw for the First Round of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club's 1954 Victory Cup competition to be played at Fanling:

Jardines v Pan American; Gilmans v Talkoo; HK Electric v U.S. Bank; RAMC v 1st Kings; J.D. Hutchison v Kowloon Dockers; 25th Rd Regt RA v Mercantile Bank; Bank Line v Gibbs, Livingston; RAF (Little Sai Wan) v Pacific Far East Lines; Public Works Dept v Royal Engineers; 14th Pk Regt RA v Medical Dept; Marine Dept v Harry Wicking; B.A.T. v Inland Revenue; I.O.I. v Lowe, Bingham; Cable & Wireless v Dairy Farm; R.A.F. CHANGES IN THE LAWS

Loitering Will Be Penalised — Says New Rugby Rule

By JOCK WEMYSS

Are you a "loiterer"? If you are, you will be penalised, even if you hang around wearing an innocent look. "Loiterers" are specially mentioned in the Notes for Referees on Law 18—OFF-SIDE.

When a scrum is forming (note the two new words), or has been formed after open play, as in "a rush," players who have been in front of the ball must retire behind it without delay.

Law 18 has a most important new piece about the line-out. What it amounts to in plain language is this: Before the throw-in as well as after the ball has touched a player or the ground, you are off-side if you have either foot in front of the ball.

So keep behind the ball at the LINE-OUT in all situations or you will be penalised. This should clean up the "illegal" operations so common in this phase of the play in recent years when about half of the opposing packs were off-side.

One Change In Irish Team

London, Sept. 21. Ireland made only one change in their international soccer team to meet England at Windsor Park, Belfast, on Saturday, October 2.

Norman Uphurch, the Portsmouth goalkeeper who returned to football this season after being nearly a year out of the game with a fractured hand, returns in place of Gregg of Doncaster. This is the only change from the side which beat Wales last March.

The team is: Uphurch (Portsmouth); Graham (Doncaster); McMichael (Aston Villa); Dickson (Aston Villa); Peacock (Glasgow Celtic); Bingham (Sunderland); J. Blanchflower (Manchester United); McAdams (Burnley); and McFarland (Aston Villa). —Reuter.

TEST WIVES ANGRY AT 'STAG' DINNER

England's cricketers, who have left to defend the Ashes in Australia, went to the traditional dinner at Lord's as the guests of the MCC, the night before they sailed. The wives were not invited. And as they will not be seeing their husbands for some six or seven months they were furious.

Mrs. Sturges, wife of the Nottinghamshire batsman, said: "This is the last night that we shall be able to spend with them—and we are having to spend the evening alone. I think it's too bad."

Mrs. McMahon, wife of the Glamorgan off-spin bowler, who is making the trip for the first time, was even more outspoken. "We don't want to make too much fuss about it," she said, "but no one ever seems to think of us."

Three more wives—Mrs. Andrew, Mrs. Lander, and Mrs. Wardle—with Frank Tyson's mother, passed the time by going to a cinema and restaurant while waiting for the players to return.

Mrs. Wardle said: "There were too many boats and goodbyes in the film for my liking. It's a pity that the MCC don't throw a farewell lunch instead of a dinner, so that we wives can enjoy the last evening with our husbands. We all feel a bit down about it."

At the dinner, Len Hutton, the captain, said: "I think we have a good chance of retaining the Ashes. Of one thing you can be quite sure: all the lads will be trying their utmost."

Kelly, who is the British title champion, won the British title three years ago and held it until supplanted by Kelly last year. Keenan, 26-year-old boxer from Glasgow, dominated the savage mauling scramble of a fight.

Kelly, a southerner, tried to box with Keenan, but would not let him settle down. From the first bell the party little Kelly rushed into the attack, chasing the champion all over the ring with swings and hooks to the body and head. It was not until the fifth round that Kelly was able to do anything in the way of retaliation.

TEST TOUR MEN TO BE PAID £1000 Fee
London, Sept. 18. Cricket, like living, is getting more and more expensive and during the England-Australia Test series, players and umpires are to get more money, and those who go to watch them must pay more to get into the ground.

The professionals in the England team have been granted an increase which makes them £1,000 sterling a tour man. They will also receive £4 sterling a week living expenses as well as accommodation, fares and most of their food.

That is up from £250 sterling on the 1952 tour. The increase of £250 to £500 for the seven months' visit to Australia and New Zealand in 1951. The 1950s' conduct bonus remains at £150 but the £4 is new.

There is a considerable difference between the payments to the England professionals and the amateurs. The amateurs have been given an increase of £250 to bring their expenses to £250 for the seven months' visit to Australia and New Zealand in 1951. The 1950s' conduct bonus remains at £150 but the £4 is new.

There were wild scenes of enthusiasm with crowds clambering over ring-side seats in an effort to congratulate Keenan, who was eventually escorted by police to the dressing room, straight a throng of cheering supporters.—Reuter.

World Amateur Billiards Ch'ship
Sydney, Sept. 21. Frank Edwards of England beat Wilson Jones of Indian Champion, by 3,074 points to 1,764 in the World Amateur Billiards Championship here.

In another match, Australian Bob Marshall beat T. G. Jones, South Africa, by 3,184 points to 1,520 tonight.

Marshall, a former holder of the world title, had 11 breaks of a century or more, his highest being 239. Jones made two century breaks with 139 as his best.

Australian Tom Cleary, who is favourite for the title, meets Wilson Jones in the next match beginning tomorrow.—Reuter.

GRASSHOPPERS BEAT ARSENAL
London, Sept. 21. The Swiss football team Grasshopper-FC of Zurich tonight beat Arsenal, English First Division side, by five goals to four in a floodlight match at Highbury, north London.

Major League Baseball Records Fall

New York, Sept. 21. Bob Grim and his New York Yankee team-mates hit a couple of individual and League milestones today by scoring a 3-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

Grim, a 24-year-old right-hander, bowled his 1954 record to 20-0 and became the first Yankee pitcher to reach the 20-victory mark since Russ Ford did it in 1910.

Grim's four-hitter enabled the Yankees to post their 10th victory of the year and set an American League record for most victories by a second place team. Ironically, none of manager Casey Stengel's championship clubs of the past five seasons ever won more than 99 games, a figure achieved by his 1953 Yankees.

The Yankees can beat the Major League mark of 104 by winning their remaining four games. Ford, now 71, watched Grim match his record. Grim struck out seven and walked two as the Yankees beat rookie left-hander Dean Stone by collecting three unearned runs.

Mixed Doubles Champions Lose First Set—Game Continues This Evening

It must be a severe nervous strain, when you have played your way to the semi-final Round of a Championship tennis tournament to have to wait at least 24 hours with the match very much in the balance and nerves will therefore have some bearing in the match which is to be continued this evening at the LRC between the Colony Mixed Doubles Champions, E. Tsai and Mrs M. Chow, and M. Heenan and Miss A. Philip with the score at one-all in the second set and the Champions having lost the first set at seven-five. All four players must feel that those who are friends of the Water Authority are no friends of theirs.

This is undoubtedly the best game so far, in the whole tournament and the rather thin crowd of spectators got a very good two dollars worth. Heenan is showing once again that, given a good partner who can take her own share of the game, he is one of the best mixed doubles players we have seen on Hongkong courts. Miss Philip has been helping to make openings for his smashing and volleying to come in and as a pair they have demonstrated that they are not at all worried by before the match reputations.

Whether the tactics which Tsai and Mrs Chow are adopting are sound is one question that will be answered by the continuation tonight. Tsai covers the court at amazing speed and certain it is that any loose one put up when he is about leads to the sudden death of that rally, but Mrs Chow seemed to be not too comfortable when tucked away in a corner and left in a more or less purely defensive role and, except for some beautiful lobs, she scored very few winners.

It is a grand game to watch and we all hope that conditions for the players will be better this evening.

DISAPPOINTING

Those who dragged their eyes away from the Stand Court match and had a look at the other semi-final were probably, like the writer, rather disappointed. Lie Boon-sing and Mrs Ulian Khoo seemed to have gone on the court beaten before a blow was struck and they did not produce the game of which they are capable.

True, any pair of players who find themselves up against the Ip family are justified in having a slight inferiority complex and they probably played as well as they could. But there is something about the sudden death of that rally, but Mrs Chow seemed to be not too comfortable when tucked away in a corner and left in a more or less purely defensive role and, except for some beautiful lobs, she scored very few winners.

On the other side of the net Mrs Ip was her customary purposeful self, placing her shots beautifully and giving nothing away.

Ip himself was fully in charge of the game, but the writer was reminded of the late George Bernard Shaw's famous comment after one of the Naval Disarmament Conferences in the nineteen-thirties: "This talk of limiting the size of Naval guns to eleven inches is an utter nonsense. If I am going to be killed by a shell I want it to be the biggest shell that was ever fired!"

CLUB TOURNEY

One of the Ladies' Plate games was also completed and Mrs Ramchand disposed of Mrs A. C. Thompson in straight sets to put herself into the final.

In the other, a quarter-final match, which started "Canton more far" on court 11 and was shifted up to court 3 when the latter became available, Mrs

Pepperall and Mrs Guillemau were having a ding-dong struggle when they were stopped at 3-love in the final set in favour of Mrs Pepperall.

Mrs Guillemau can be a bit erratic and needs a better backhand but she has some very aggressive shots on the forehand.

She will need, however, to be both steady and aggressive if she is going to pull back the initial deficit when the game is resumed at 4.30 p.m. today.

Engagement of Mrs Chow and Mrs Philip in their continued match this evening means the postponement to Thursday, September 23 of the Colony Ladies' Singles Final and a LRC Ladies' Singles Championship match in which Mrs Philip was due to play Mrs Crofton, but the other games scheduled for tonight will be played as arranged.

THE RESULTS

Colony Mixed Doubles (Semi-Finals)

Santee Predicts He Will Break Mile Record At Sugar Bowl Meeting

New Orleans, Sept. 21.

Wes Santee predicted today he would "break the mile record" of John Landy in accepting an invitation to run in an international mile planned for the Sugar Bowl Games here this December.

"I hope you can get the world's best Milers for your meet," he wrote Track Chairman L. Di Benedetto of the Mid-Winter Sports Association. "I am coming back to New Orleans to break the mile record."

Also invited for the international mile are Dr. Roger Bannister of England, first man to break the four-minute barrier; John Landy, Australian who holds the world record of 3:58; Rich Ferguson of Canada who finished third behind Bannister and Landy in the British Empire Games in 1948; and Vic Mitchell of North Carolina who was fourth in the 1950 U.S. Olympic Games. Santee, who is now back at the University of California, is a specialist in the mile and has won several titles in the event. He is now at the University of California, Berkeley.

Marching smartly into the spot of honour at the top of the Parade this week is Lance Corporal Rollinson of the King's Regiment with as brilliant a punch as we have had the pleasure of seeing in a long long time.

In a light-welterweight bout at the Royal Navy promotion last Wednesday Rollinson took just less than a minute to find an opening for his lethal right glove and his opponent, LAC Anderson-Dixon of the Royal Air Force thereafter ceased to take any further interest in the proceedings.

Rollinson boxed with skill and restraint until the real chance presented itself and then, like a flash, cut came that accurate right hand, and the fight was over.

If suitable opponents can be found for this strong boxer there should be no lack of thrills in the season that lies ahead.

NEW ARRIVALS
Once again it is my pleasure to welcome to the Colony the sportsman of a newly arrived regiment. Already there are reports of the prowess of the King's Own Royal Regiment and there seems no doubt that their arrival here will add still further to the intensity of the competition that lies ahead.

The Army Football Committee was quickly off its mark as far as trying out the new arrivals. A soccer star was discovered and four men from the regiment, Stonehouse, Robson, Wallace and Walsley, were out in a trial game at Sookunpoo yesterday.

Early reports also indicate that the regiment has a strong and competent boxing team and there is a feeling that they may well be fighting it out with their near neighbours, the King's Regiment, for the premier local honours.

Now faces add to the variety of the competition in our many sports and I say to the newcomers: "Welcome to Hongkong... we look forward to seeing your representatives in action."

WELLS LEAVES
Army and Colony football was the poorer for the departure of the troops' Empire Fowey yesterday as aboard, on his way back to civil life, was Lt/Cpl Roy Wells who has captained the Army team for the past two seasons.

Wells has represented Hongkong on many occasions and has had the pleasure of playing against many famous visiting teams. One aspect of his career here is different from that of most other soccer players who have distinguished themselves in the Army colours... he has never had any experience in soccer football of any kind prior to his arrival in Hongkong.

His development once he started to play in the Army senior side was fast and balanced and there is no doubt that he has a great opportunity to make good in the professional game back in the United Kingdom. He is already booked to appear in several trial games for prominent North of England teams and it seems that only a complete loss of form... and there was no suggestion of that in the early practice games staged by the Army this season... could prevent him joining a top team.

Wells will not be short of company on the trip as Army teammates Higgins and O'Donnell are with him now as shipmates. Higgins took over the left half position when Stevens went home midway through last season and played many fine games.

O'Donnell played most of his football with the 'B' team where it used to be said that he was worth his place in or out of form because of his happy disposition. All of them will be missed... and as an 'Au Revoir' we say "Good Luck... Good Fortune... and thanks for all the good pleasure you gave us."

NO FREE CONCESSION
I received a couple of letters recently from young soldiers who wanted information about facilities for fishing in the Colony reservoirs. It is understood that others are also interested in getting the necessary particulars and I have to report that contrary to the comments in one of the letters there is no free concession in force at the present time for members of the Services.

However it is understood that this whole subject has been covered thoroughly in a recent Land Forces Order and interested parties would be well advised to seek guidance from their Officers. Room before embarking on any fishing visit to the reservoirs.

RE-TRAINING SOLDIERS
Some years ago the Royal Signals was the only branch of the Army which had a special training school for its own personnel. This was the Signals School at Chatham, Kent, and it was there that the famous "Signals" were trained.

Around Hollywood With MICHAEL RUDY

AVA GARDNER IS OFTEN A HEADACHE BUT NEVER A BORE

I watched two cinema queens leave Hollywood and there was a marked difference. The first was Jane Russell, bound for Paris and London, to film "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes."

For the first time, Jane won't have her own hairdresser, make-up man, wardrobe woman. Reason: No labour permits for them to work in England. ("So what's the use of taking them to Paris and then sending them back to Hollywood," Jane said.)

But she's got her secretary, Margaret Martinez with her. And soon she'll be joined by her husband, Bob Waterfield, ex-professional footballer, and a tough man when aroused.

Mr W. is also associate producer on the picture. Quite a step from football to motion pictures. But others have done it, if not so quickly.

Jane's only fear—the British press and the questions she'll be asked about adopted son, Tommy Kavanagh.

The second queen to leave, more to New York where she'll film sequences for "The Seven Year Itch," was Marilyn Monroe. Husband Joe DiMaggio, millionaire ex-baseball star, is also on the picture.

But in New York, Marilyn swivel-hipped, posed for caricature photos, and blew kisses to the mob of fans who greeted her.

Another movie lass made the headlines. Ava Gardner, who barefooted into Brazil to publicise "The Barefoot Contessa," apparently had a few too many, was asked to leave her hotel in Rio, so left the country.

MGM officials in Brazil felt their goodwill had been set back 10 years. MGM here said that Ava, and Ava Sinatra—I mean Ava Gardner said she'd be back in Hollywood in time for wardrobe tests and rehearsals for "Bhowani Junction" to be made in India with Stewart Granger.

With Ava, there are few dull moments—often a headache but never a bore is this barefoot lass from South Carolina. I must salute another girl from South Carolina.

She is Miriam Stephenson, who decided that a movie contract at $250 a week at Universal for being Miss Universe wasn't as good as education and marriage. She resigned from the contract, packed, and home to Carolina in the morning.

"I'll finish my college courses, and teach," she told me. "Wise girl. The best she was offered to date was a walk-on in 'Lady Godiva'. Beauty contest winners get publicity but few brains."

Others who are still in Hollywood waiting and hoping are Myrna Hansen and Christine Martel. Only one working is Ruth Hampton in small roles, and cheese-cake photographs.

If you see Errol Flynn ambling around, you might mention that Vincent Price is suing him for about $5,000 guineas for unpaid salary for acting in a movie, called "The Bargain". According to Mr Price, Mr Flynn didn't keep his, hence the demand.

This puts Errol Flynn in the champion class for litigation, including suits by two ex-wives.

EMBARRASSING
Grace Allen, on television with husband George Burns, told me of a strange dream: "I walked into this house crowded with people and I had nothing on but a hat and it was embarrassing. There was a woman there wearing the exact same hat."

I watched Lana Turner, as the Goddess of Love, in Damascus, 70 B.C., use her charms on Edmund Purdom, wearing a curled beard, long hair, and a Roman toga, and gold-leather sandals. He's playing the title role in "The Frodo" (The Prodigal Son legend of the Bible, adapted and embellished in the most lavish manner imaginable).

Sitting beside me was Taina Elis, a ballerina from Finland via London, and the Sadler's Wells Ballet. She's a charming girl, who, if her movie career progresses too slowly, will easily return to dancing, and London. ("My husband and I love living in London. We love British people," she said.)

Next to us was Louis Calhern, in cloth of gold with fingers weighted down with enormous amethysts. "I'm the high priest of Ashtar and Bael and what have you," he murmured. "It's a quiet sort of life in Damascus. Lots of parties, and very pretty girls."

"Yes, but I give the parties, provide the girls and you use my house," said Francis L. Sullivan, almost bursting through his robes. He is the rich merchant who entertains for the Prodigal Son in the latest scene in Hollywood, today, at $10,000 a week.

I talked to Sam Barlow, an erstwhile Tarzan, now a Western hero at Universal, who's making a dash for Broadway, and a play called "The Sign of the Cross" is being produced.

And I saw a young man, a former football player, who's now a writer, and a former football player, who's now a writer, and a former football player, who's now a writer.

Hongkong Favoured To Regain Ho Ho Cup

Singapore, Sept. 21.

Hongkong Chinese footballers are expected to regain the Ho Ho Cup this year as the tentative Malayan Chinese team selected for the annual interport looks to be one of the weakest ever selected.

Although the final selection has not yet been made, it is known that 10 Chinese players will make the trip to Hongkong for the interport proper to be played on October 2. In addition, three non-Chinese players will accompany the contingent to take part in two unofficial matches.

The Malaya Chinese Ho Ho Cup team tentatively selected is as follows:

Goalkeeper, Chu Chee-seng; full-backs, Lee Sai-chong, Tang Cheok-foo; halves, Cheah Cheng-kok, Mak Wai-hoong, Yap Hin-hean, Chuah Poh-nur, Fop Hee-jong; forwards Aw Boon-seong (captain), Yeap Cheng-ong (vice-captain), Chuah Poh-beng, Pang Siang-tak, Tan Swee-cheng, Mok Wai-keen, Thong Poh-chiew, Hong Lin-iet.

Speed is probably the only advantage the Malayan forwards would claim over the Hongkong players.

STAR PLAYER MISSED

The Malayan Chinese Football Association failed in its bid to obtain the services of Singapore's inside-forward, Chin Boon-leong, who was voted Malaya's most popular footballer in the recent Fraser & Neave Aerated Water Co. competition. He is due to leave Singapore on September 25 on a two-month tour.

Home Confinements Have Advantages

London, Sept. 21.

British medical authorities believe home confinements have distinct clinical and psychological advantages over hospital treatment, according to Mr. Iain Macleod, Health Minister.

"Many women seem wisely to prefer it," he told 850 delegates attending the opening in London of the world's first International Congress of Midwives. They include 300 women representatives from 48 Commonwealth and foreign countries.

The Minister pointed to the fact that whereas in the United States and Scandinavia the great majority of births took place in hospital, in Holland, like Britain, had a very high proportion of home confinements.

"With us more than a third of all confinements take place at home," he added. "This is not simply a method forced upon us by a shortage of hospital maternity beds. It is part of the traditional pattern of our maternity services that the normal uncomplicated case, where the home circumstances are suitable, should be dealt with in the home."

The Philippines' delegation and some American businessmen with Philippine interests were conferring yesterday afternoon at Blair House, United Press.

W. German Workers Will Become Company Directors

Bonn, Sept. 21.

The West German Parliament will debate a Government Bill this autumn to give workers some responsibility in running newly-formed holding companies.

Each of these companies is a roof organisation for several firms in the iron and steel producing industries, as well as for several coal or ore mines.

There are six holding companies now—Hoesch, Krupp, Hütten, Huetten, Mannesmann, Nordwestdeutsche Huetten- und Bergwerksverein, and Rheinisch A.G.

More are expected to be founded soon. The six together some of the Ruhr firms which, through Allied decentralisation policy, had been separated from the great Nazi combines and established as self-supporting companies.

Industry has been eager to form the holding companies ever since the Allies handed over control of centralisation to the West Germans last year. The Government and the Trade Union Federation, representing 6,000,000 workers, had no objections. Both argued that holding companies were justifiable in the interests of the German economy.

"THE SEATS" The new Bill, now being drafted by the Labour Ministry, will award seats on each company's Board of Directors to representatives of the workers.

The Ministry has not yet decided on the proportion of seats. The trade unions insist on 50 per cent, as is practised in the coal and steel producing industries, but the employers and many members of the Government coalition parties want to concede only 33 per cent as practised in all industry other than coal and steel producing.

The employers argue that holding companies cover not only coal and steel producing companies but also plants where the workers are entitled to only a one third representation on the Boards.

One court, which had to rule on a dispute over this question between the management of the Mannesmann holding company and the trade unions, decided that the 50 per cent clause could not be applied.

ONE THIRD

Under present law, the court states, the holding companies had to be treated as industrial plants outside the provisions of this clause—as industries whose boards of directors reserve only one third of their seats for the workers and the rest go to the shareholders.

The trade unions have appealed against this verdict. They also announced that they would fight "with all possible means" for the introduction of the 50 per cent clause in the holding companies.

They said that they would not easily acquiesce if Parliament accepted the employers' view. Political observers here regarded this as meaning that the unions are prepared to call a general strike to press their demands for a successful conclusion.

One of the coalition parties, the Free Democrats, announced that it intended to introduce a Bill which would restrict the unions' right to call a general strike. This would be based on the realisation that "under present social and economic conditions in West Germany, a strike can hardly be justified."

The Social Democratic opposition replied: "Strikes are a means of carrying out disputes between social partners are a recognised legal means in all democratic states. We shall strongly oppose any attempt to restrict the right to strike. The Free Democrats' anti-strike plan shows how far they have already got away from the ideas of democracy."—China Mail Special.

Lawyers May Decline To Aid Poor Prisoners

Falkenstein, Sept. 21.

A British Commonwealth and Empire legal conference will be held in London from July 20 to 27 next year. It was announced at the annual conference of the Law Society here today.

The President, Mr. Frederick Jessop, said the suggestion had found "warm approval" among Dominion Law Societies and Bar Associations.

An Executive Committee to make arrangements for the conference, included two representatives from Australia, Canada, Ceylon, New Zealand and South Africa, as well as four from the United Kingdom.

In his address, Mr. Jessop warned that lawyers might decline to volunteer to defend poor prisoners unless the scale of fees were increased.

NECESSARY SERVICE

"The legal defence of poor prisoners is a necessary social service and like all other social services should be paid for out of the coffers of the state and not out of the pockets of one section of the public only—namely the 'legal profession,'" he added.

He also suggested that solicitors should work in partnership rather than alone in view of the increasing volume and complexity of the law.

Fifty years ago, the yearly statistics were contained in a modest volume of 103 pages. In 1945 they occupied two substantial volumes, and over 2,000 pages," Mr. Jessop said.

S. Australia To Have First A-Power Station

Adelaide, Sept. 21.

South Australia will be the first Australian state to produce electric power from atomic energy, the South Australian Premier, Mr. Thomas Playford, told his Parliament today.

He said he had been named as the Minister for Atomic Energy in the new Government. He said the State Government had decided to build a small atomic power station at Port Broughton, near Adelaide, to produce electricity for the State's power grid.

NINTH SESSION OF U.N.
GENERAL ASSEMBLY OPENS

New York, Sept. 21.

The United Nations General Assembly opened its ninth session in New York today with a minute of silent prayer and meditation.

Mrs. Pandit of India, last year's President, occupied the chair and after a minute of prayer, addressed the Assembly. She said the success of the negotiations that brought about the end of the war in Indo-China was a demonstration of how most difficult and menacing conflicts could be halted by the process of negotiations.

"This great event of the current year was the application of United Nations methods for the advancement of United Nations purposes and we should not cavil that in this instance the nations concerned chose to act technically outside the United Nations," Mrs. Pandit said.

"So within the framework of our Charter we must continue step by patient step to reconcile what differences may still divide us and to work in the fullest harmony on those still vital tasks in which the interest of all humanity is one—the elimination of common enemies in the shape of hunger, disease, illiteracy, and sub-standard living conditions." The problems confronting the United Nations were part and parcel of the troubled times, she added.

After Mrs. Pandit had concluded her speech, she called for the establishment of a credentials committee, which passed on the credentials of all delegates.

Immediately Mr. Andrei Vyshinsky, Chief Soviet delegate, asked for the floor.

Mr. Vyshinsky launched into the expected demand for the recognition of Communist China.

"Isn't the situation monstrous indeed," he asked, "where in the United Nations which claims to be international, representatives of the great 600 million Chinese people are still absent and that seat which legitimately belongs to the Chinese People's Republic is occupied by representatives of the Kuomintang clique?"

The conversation this year between Mr. Chou En-lai, Chinese Communist Prime Minister, and the Prime Minister of India, Mr. Nehru, and the Prime Minister of Burma had indicated that large Asian powers had attained a mutual understanding as to their mutual and joint efforts towards peace, Mr. Vyshinsky said.

SUBVERTED CONFIDENCE
The absence of the Chinese Communists, he asserted, subverted confidence and respect in the United Nations as an international organization.

"Such a state of affairs cannot be tolerated and cannot be allowed to continue under any circumstances," he declared. Many leaders had come in favour of seating Communist China, including those of India, Britain, Norway and others. "There is no doubt that the question of restoring the legitimate rights of the Chinese People's Republic would have been resolved long ago but for the United States," Mr. Vyshinsky declared.

SERIOUS BLOW
He moved a resolution that the Assembly should resolve to seat the representatives of the Chinese People's Republic in the General Assembly and other organizations of the United Nations. Mr. Vyshinsky said any further delay was bound to deal a serious blow to the international prestige and authority of the organization.

The United States Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, led the United States into the Assembly hall, but Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, the permanent American representative, went to the rostrum to answer Mr. Vyshinsky.

Mr. Lodge said he would not engage in a discussion of the question raised by Mr. Vyshinsky, but simply proposed that the Assembly decide "not to consider at its ninth session during the current year any proposal to exclude the representatives of the Government of the Republic of China or to seat the representatives of the Chinese People's Republic."

European Fined
$1,000 For
Reckless Driving

J. P. Kelly, 42, of 18, Peak Mansions, who pleaded guilty to reckless driving, was fined $1,000 by Mr. Hin-shing Lo this morning, and had his licence endorsed.

He was charged with driving car No. HK618 recklessly on August 14, along Stubbs Road. He previously pleaded not guilty to the charge of dangerous driving, which was accepted by the Police.

Kelly was represented by Mr. J. C. Stewart, of Messrs Stewart and Company.

At the previous hearing, Sub-insp. Groomer gave an outline of the case, in which he said that Kelly, while overtaking a car, ran into an oncoming vehicle. Continuing his statement, he stressed that if the driver of the car into which Kelly had not braked before the actual impact she and the two children who were at the back would have received serious injuries.

Mr. Stewart said in mitigation that he accepted the facts as given by the Police, as his client could not dispute them. He suffered concussion of the brain, and was unconscious nearly all that night, and as a result, he could not remember any of the facts that led to the unfortunate accident.

He said his client wished to express regret that Mrs. Van Dyke and her children were involved in the accident. Both Kelly and his wife were in touch with her after the accident, to inquire into their well-being.

CIVIL CLAIM
There will be civil claim, as her car could not be used, Mr. Stewart continued, but that will be dealt with by insurance companies, he added.

This was the first offence ever committed by Kelly, in 22 years of driving, that in Britain, then in Africa and now in Hongkong. If he had begun his driving by committing such offences, then it could be expected that he would continue in the same way, but, Mr. Stewart said, a man with a clean record for 22 years would not make the same mistake twice.

As Kelly was an engineer, work supervisor, who needed to inspect construction work at various parts of the Peak and also Taikeo, it would be almost impossible for him to continue with his job without a car of his own. He could not afford to hire a driver, nor could he use taxis. Mr. Stewart pointed out to Mr. Lo that when a man is convicted for a driving offence for the first time, the magistrate has the discretion whether or not to suspend the driving licence.

Kelly had suffered already, by sustaining severe injuries, concussion of the brain and a fracture of the second vertebra. Coming before Mr. Lo with a plea of guilty and a frank admission, Kelly was not the kind of man who would fail to remedy his mistake.

DEATH OF A MIDWIFE
MURDER TRIAL CONTINUES

Man Tells How He Treated Accused's Injured Finger

A Chinese herbalist's assistant gave evidence at the Criminal Sessions this morning that he treated an injured forefinger of Chan Hon-por, alias Tsui Kin-wah, 26-year-old carpenter-painter, on trial for the alleged murder of a midwife.

It is alleged that the accused strangled the deceased, Lau Sui-tak, with a rope some time on April 20, after which he was alleged to have made off with some of her valuables.

According to the Crown, the flat in which the midwife was found dead—98 Queen's Road West, first floor—showed signs of a severe struggle.

Mr. D. F. O. Mayne, Senior Crown Counsel, is prosecuting, assisted by Det. Inspector G. A. D. Rich. The accused is defended by Mr. V. L. J. d'Alton, instructed by Mr. A. el Arculli, Jr.

The case is being tried by a Jury of four men and three women before Mr. Justice J. R. Greig.

Chan Chung, folk of a pawnshop at 648 Shanghai Street, ground floor, testified that about 4 p.m. on April 20, a gold wrist watch was pawned by a man for $50. The man gave him the name of Wong Sang and mentioned that his address was in Prince Edward Road.

The watch was never redeemed. On May 13, a detective came to the shop and took the watch away.

WENT TO LAUNDRY
Detective Cpl 1201, Chan Yuk, said in evidence that he went to 125, Prince Edward Road—the address given by the pawnshop people. Nobody by the name of Wong Sang lived at that address.

The same day, Chan went on to a laundry at Mong-kok Road and took away a shirt. The watch and shirt he handed over to Inspector Rich.

Crown Counsel's witness said 125 Prince Edward Road was a one-story house consisting of a shop. He admitted he did not inquire whether anybody by the name of Wong Sang had lived in that place at any time between April 20 and the time of his visit.

Tang Sz, the next witness, testified that he was an assistant to his brother who was a Chinese herbalist with a shop in Tung Tau Village. On the evening of April 20, the accused and another man known to him as Ah Luk came into his shop.

ASKED FOR TREATMENT
Witness said the accused asked him to put some Chinese medicine on his hand. He asked the accused what was the matter with it, and the accused replied he had been bitten while playing with someone.

He examined the accused's forefinger on the left hand, and found a spot that looked like an abrasion. There was no blood.

Witness said his brother at the time was lying in bed bedridden with a fever. His brother called out: "Is it serious?"

He replied: "Nothing quite serious."

Witness said he then prepared some medicine and treated the accused's finger.

Mr. d'Alton put it to witness that when he gave his evidence in the lower Court, witness had said that the accused did not say anything at all, and that Ah Luk, the other man with him, was the one who said that the accused had been bitten.

After some consideration, witness agreed that the lower Court version was the correct one.

Replying to a suggestion that he was not clear on this point at all, witness said in fact nothing of that sort was said, by any body, he maintained he was telling the truth.

Hearing is proceeding.

Tibetan
Rebel Leaders Arrested

Kalimpong, India, Sept. 21. Chinese Communist occupation troops in Tibet have arrested leaders of the rebellious Senthil and Khambus tribes in Eastern Tibet and taken them to Lhasa for trial, reports reaching here said today.

New details of the recent clashes trickling out of the mountainous country said Kham province in eastern Tibet was the seat of the present unrest and that the Communists had sent the 18th Army Division into the area to put down the revolt.

The reports said the Senthil and Khambus tribes first demanded autonomy for Kham and later openly advocated non-payment of taxes. The Communists raised the tax rates and threatened defaulting with "serious consequences," the reports said.

The Tibetans retaliated by ordering the Chinese to quit the province and then took up arms against the occupation forces, inflicting casualties. Deaths were reported on both sides before the Communists massed reinforcements and brought the situation under control. Clashes are continuing, the reports said.—United Press.
